At the Broadway.
Tonight at the Broadway the consolation prize of $10 is to be awarded to those making the best attempt to lift the bag of sand. All those who have made the attempt are eligible for the contest tonight, and in addition to those are the Bitgood brothers, those famous strong men of Volunturn, who were unable to attend last night, but who say they will be there with all their might tonight. This will make a total list of about twenty of the strongest athletes in the town and is an event which should not be missed by anyone. To see twenty of Norwich's native sons in the arena battling for supremacy will be a sight indeed. The prize for lifting and carrying off the bag has been raised from fifty to one hundred dollars by a well known local dentist, as an incentive for local athletes to make a try for the prize.

BREED THEATER.

"The Little Rag Doll," Pathetic Moving Picture.

A bright and interesting moving picture at the Breed theater this week is the one called "The Little Rag Doll," and is the story of a little child playing with her rag doll on the street, and is about a boy who is called Rag Doll. The new parents endeavor to please her in every way, with costly toys, but she still prefers the rag doll. A number of years after the child is shown in her fine home, and a man is called in to set a pane of glass in one of the windows, and recognizes the rag doll in a cabinet, and finds the owner to be none other than his own daughter, now grown, who insists upon both the father and mother coming to her home, which she very gladly opens to them forever.

The strong bill of the week includes many other dramatic pictures, among which are "The New Mirror," "Convicts Release," "Lost Out," "Educating the Blind," and a whole reel of comedy by the title of "The Uplifting of Mr. Barker," one of the finest pictures in the business.

PERSONS TALKED ABOUT.

It appears that James T. Williams, Jr., who has been named for civil service commission by President Taft, is the former Washington correspondent of the Boston Transcript, who attended Mr. Taft in a confidential capacity during the presidential campaign.

Mrs. A. A. Anderson of Greenfield, Ct., has given $5,000 toward a parish building to be dedicated to the social and educational purposes of the deaf and dumb. The house is to be three stories in height and to contain rooms for entertainment, handicraft and physical training.

The death of James H. Riggs, D. D., born in 1821, twice president of the English Wesleyan conference and for 35 years editor of the English Quarterly Review, takes from the ranks of English nonconformity a prominent and influential personality, whose power, 20 years ago, was large and often arbitrarily used.

Professor of Archaeology and Director of the Schleswig-Holstein Museum of Antiquities at Kiel is the full title of Johanna Meisner, who celebrated her 80th birthday on April 17. In referring to the anniversary, in which history and scientific circles of Germany were interested, a biographer says: "Frau Meisner was born at Bramstedt, Holstein, and never married."

Dr. Philip Schilder, analytical chemist, London, said in answer to Dr. Adey that there was a general idea that the word brandy was derived from the German, "Brandwein," and, however, was as old as its continental equivalents. It was formerly spelled "brandywine," and then "brandy." The word brandy, which was common to all the Teutonic words for brandy, meant a thing burning or that had been burnt. Therefore the word meant "brandywine."

Mme. Olive Fremstad has been enjoying an ovation lately in Minnesota, her native state, where her Scandinavian ancestry has been received with open arms. In Minneapolis, Gov. John Johnson, who went to school with Mme. Fremstad in St. Peter, Minn., presented her with a silver laurel wreath at the close of her concert. At St. Peter, where the prima donna was born, practically the whole town met her at the station, heard her concert and escorted her back to the train.

TROLLEY CIRCUS.

Bridgeport Amusement Company Plans Division for Children.
The Babyland Amusement company, a Bridgeport enterprise, elaborate plans for the season of 1932, when it will branch out with a trolley circus designed primarily for children, but upon such a scale as to be of interest to adults as well. The company has been presenting baby shows successfully throughout the east, and will continue to provide them in connection with the children's circus under canvas.

SILVER COMPANY

Began Work on Full Time at Bridgeport on Monday.

The E. H. Smith Silver Co. of the East End, Bridgeport, went on full time Monday and will commence immediately on an order for $25,000 worth of silverware. The order is from the U. S. Restaurant and Realty company of New York, which is to erect one of the tallest buildings in the metropolis.

The order, which will be "Made in Bridgeport," comprises an entirely new pattern of Grecian design, which will not only be novel, but when finished will be a credit to the makers.

FOETRY.

THOUGHTS IN A LIBRARY.

Speak low—read softly through these halls;
Here Genius lives enshrined;
Here reigns the silent majesty
The monarchs of the mind.

A mighty spirit—hoist their come,
From every age and clime,
Above the hurried week of years,
They break the tide of time.

And in their presence chamber here
They hold their royal state,
And round them throng a noble train,
The gifted and the great.

Oh, child of Earth! when round thy path
The storm of life arise,
And when thy brothers pass thee by
With stern, unloving eyes—

Here shall the poets chant for thee
Their sweetest, loftiest lays;
And prophetic words to guide thy steps
In wisdom's pleasant ways.

Come, with these God-anointed kings
Here thou companion here;
And in the mighty realm of mind
Thou shalt go forth a peer!

—Anna C. Lynch.

AN EPITAPH.

No one today is happy as you are,
No one so happy in any place as
Not in the sea hidden islands winged
With spray.

Nor in any impregnable bright star
Nor any girl or boy.

Nearest approach to your loneliness
Are we who watch your wonderful
And eyes
Here at the awful gates of Paradise;
Our hungry hearts eager for great
Only to look on the true face of love,
O children, do you understand?

This is the day!

Husband and wife—O happy, happy pair!
A union so perfect that it keeps
A faded bliss, a marriage made in dreams.

A husband and wife—those old unhappy words
Glow with mysterious blessedness
once more.
Like an old world made young again
And the green leaf and the returning birds.

And the warm summer soft of gleaming showers—
Young and backed with sweetness to the core.

Young king and queen—pass to your places now;
Pass in and from your happy windows;
Along your stately avenue of days;
Survey the shining gardens of your
All the future filling with increase.
O garnered joy and prosperous with The long sweet ripening of your marriages now;
—Richard Mailliards in the Delinator for May.

VIEWS AND VARIETIES.

Clever Sayings.

Teacher—Now, children, who was it came after Charles the First. Bright eyes—Please, miss, the executioner.
—Boston Transcript.

Kelena—Why, he yawned three times while I was talking to him! Myrtle—Perhaps he wasn't yawning. He may have been trying to say something!
—Modern Society.

Generous Lady—Here, my little boy,
I know you are hungry for a box of these animal crackers. Boy—Much obliged, lady; but my folks is vegetarians.
—Judge.

"If you agree with everything a person says that person will think you have good judgment." "I know I've tried that unsuccessfully on my wife."
—Pittsburg Post.

"The Doctor—Young man, it will not do for you to expect in any office. You must get out doors—mist have all.
By the way, what is your occupation?"
Patient—I am an anatomist.—Life.

"A man has just sworn in death."
"Let us send him a wreath of flowers."
"Let us rather wait for his obsequies, collect a number of wreaths and have public speaking."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

"What was that thing you put in my mouth?" gasped the patient. "A rubber dam," soothed the dentist. "What?"
"Reverse the words, don't," sighed the victim. Cleveland Leader.

"What is your number of congress
notes for?" "Well," answered Farmer Cornsteele, "around here he is mostly spotted for arguments that won't go down at court but won't come up."
—Washington Star.

"Even a policeman can't arrest the night of time," said the funny man.
"Oh, I don't know," rejoined the major-domo person. "Only this morning I saw a policeman enter a side door and stop a few minutes."—Illustrated

MUCH IN LITTLE.

The exports of dolls and toys from Coburg to the United States during 1931 amounted to $1,230,255, as compared with $2,414,446 in 1930, a decrease of $1,184,191.

By the aid of the electro-chemical production of manures consisting almost entirely of nitrogen, Germany expects to largely decrease the importation of saltpetre from Chile.

A body of business men engaged in external commerce in Mexico, Japan, has filed an application to the American consul general in Yokohama to open a consulate at that place.

There are 32 lepers—half of them
whites—in the hospital in New South Wales. From 1883, when the leprosy was established in the island, 1,197, 114 persons have been isolated there.

More copper, coal and raw silk were sent abroad in 1931 than in 1930, but less money was received for each.
Copper was $100 tons more for $1-000,000 less. Cotton yarn exports decreased $5,000,000.

As shown by the Mexican railroad freight department, Vera Cruz as a maritime custom port is enjoying a large increase of business over former months, with a consequential increase in revenue from import taxes.

Chinese newspapers report that the British and German consuls at Tientsin have filed an application to the American consul general in Tientsin to recommend their respective governments to reduce a portion of the Boxer indemnities as a proof of their friendship for China.

Extra steamship service is being provided between Mexico and Spain by the Royal Mail Yards in order to carry the huge chicken crop, says The Mexican Herald. Mexico formerly made large purchases of these from Spain,
but is now exporting them.

The London Times has just published Dr. Dawson Dunn's annual statement of the British nation's drink bill, which Consul General Howe of Manchester states shows an annual decrease last year of nearly $20,000,000, or allowing for increase in population,
a decrease in expenditure equal to $16,000,000.

The yuchuanan (ministry of posts and communications) considers that proposed railways are increasing in number in China, there will be a great demand for all kinds of material which if purchased from abroad will deprive China of much profit. The ministry has, therefore, decided to organize a workshop in Tientsin this spring in order to meet the requirements.
